

First youth representative under its TAGE initiative

Student of MA French, Goa University Ms Maitri Dand, has been selected as First youth representative under its TAGE initiative. UNESCO (UNESCO-MGIEP) has announced the selection of its first youth representative under its TAGE initiative (Talking Across Generations on Education, a youth-driven intergenerational dialogue on education): Maitri Dand is pursuing her Masters in French and Francophone Studies at Goa University. (Source: https://twitter.com/UNESCO_MGIEP/status/1327635707184070657)

UNESCO MGIEP believes that any strategy aimed at the youth cannot be successful without empowering the youth, thereby encouraging them to speak up. The TAGE is a youth-driven intergenerational dialogue on education that provides a non-hierarchical platform to the youth to interact, discuss and debate critical issues that concern the future, with policymakers. (Source: <https://mgiep.unesco.org/tage>)

Congratulations Ms Maitri.