10. The objectives of the Program/activity/event	1. To examine the intersection of courts, data, and development in shaping inclusive policy frameworks in India. 2. To explore the role of artificial intelligence in analyzing environmental litigation. 3. To provide students and faculty an opportunity to engage with an international expert in the field of development studies. 4. To promote interdisciplinary approaches to environmental governance and public policy.
11. Description of the Program/activity/event	The workshop on “Courts, Data and Development: AI Analysis of Environmental Litigation for Inclusive Policy in India” was conducted at the Manohar Parrikar School of Law, Governance and Public Policy, Goa University. Dr. Shareen Joshi, Associate Professor of International Development at Georgetown University, facilitated the session and offered valuable insights into how AI tools are increasingly applied in the study of environmental litigation. She explored the evolving relationship between courts and regulators in shaping environmental outcomes. She further highlighted the boom–bust cycle of environmental litigation in India—where initial progress is often followed by phases of decline—and emphasized that sustainable development requires shared responsibility, with government, institutions, and citizens working together. The program was coordinated by Dr. Steffi Quintal, Programme Director, Public Administration, under the guidance of Senior Professor Rajendra S. Gad, Dean, MPSLGPP, and Dr. Alaknanda Shringare, Vice Dean, Research.

12. Benefit/Key outcomes of the Program/activity/event	Enhanced awareness of the role of artificial intelligence in judicial and policy analysis. Provided interdisciplinary perspectives linking law, governance, technology, and development. Stimulated critical thinking among students and faculty regarding environmental justice and policy inclusivity. Encouraged academic dialogue and networking with an international expert.
13. Enclosures with report	Flyer, Geo-tagged photos, Registration Sheet.
