9. No. of external students/faculty/other participants	57
10. The objectives of the Program/activity/event	The event aims to encourage reading among young learners and introduce them to eclectic genres, authors, and perspectives. This session will offer a unique opportunity for students to engage with contemporary literature and broaden their understanding of cultural narratives through regional storytelling. Attendees will interact with Dr. Prakash Parienkar, gaining insights into his creative process and the portrayal of marginalized voices in his stories. The readings of "Varsal" in multiple languages will highlight the richness and diversity of literary expressions. Additionally, the Pop-Up Book Fair will feature a curated selection of books across various genres, inspiring a vibrant reading culture.
11. Description of the Program/activity/event	Dr. Prakash Parienkar first addressed the gathering, sharing insights into the process of writing "Varsal" and giving voice to marginalized stories. The event included a multilingual reading of the book by professors from various disciplines of the Shenoi Goembab School of Languages and Literature. This was followed by a discussion on the translation and its nuances, with audience questions. Dr. Prakash was presented with handmade bookmarks and an "Impressions" book containing reflections from the audience. Students and professors from colleges across Goa attended the event, which concluded with a deeper appreciation for regional literature and its many expressions.
12. Benefit/Key outcomes of the Program/activity/event	● Gain insights into Dr. Prakash Parienkar's writing process and marginalized voices in "Varsal" ● Spark interest in regional languages through multilingual readings ● Gain a deeper understanding of translation nuances • Increase awareness and appreciation for regional literature
